Held Over! One of the Most Daring and Exhilarating Undertakings in the Scope of Modern Theatre – Rebecca Northan in Blind Date Extended Mar. 9 through Mar. 12

TORONTO, ON (Feb. 24, 2010) – Harbourfront Centre’s World Stage today announced the extension of Rebecca Northan in *Blind Date, the hilarious and sexy show adored by audiences and critics alike.

Held over by popular demand, Blind Date has been extended for a third week, Mar. 9 through Mar. 12. After a sold-out run in 2009, audiences will have four additional opportunities to see Northan’s brilliant improvisational mastery.

“...a flight of theatrical fancy that is absolutely magical. Four stars out of four.” – Toronto Star

Northan plays Mimi, a young Parisian woman waiting for a blind date in a café somewhere along the banks of the Seine. When she is stood up, Mimi turns to the audience to find someone brave enough to answer love’s call. Blind Date is a fusion of clown, improvisation, theatre, and social experiment. The result is nail-biting hilarity where nothing is off limits, and each show is as different as the date selected.
